Letter to CBC Was Start of a Friendship

... In 1946 there used to be a program on radio called Prairie Schooner ... which we heard over CBK Saskatchewan. On this program a little girl of 11 years or so named Oryssia Perrich used to be the singer, sometimes singing in Ukrainian. I liked her singing so much that I wrote to the CBC commenting on her. The CBC answered my letter, also sending it on to Oryssia. From that letter a pen friendship resulted, and kept up for 15 years. Neither of us had seen each other until last week, when I attended her wedding in Winnipeg ... a beautiful climax resulting from the CBC sending my letter to her in 1946. ... —Mrs. J.L., Wood Mountain, Sask.

Aberhart Reviewed In "Magnificent Way"

• I have just listened to "Profile in Politics" on William Aberhart and wish to commend the producer for reviewing the life of a magnificent man in such a magnificent way. He was one of the nation's "greats", especially to people in Alberta. We would not have liked our memory of him shattered with untruths and malice. You presented his story well and we enjoyed recalling those exciting days of Aberhart's campaign for Social Credit.—L.M., Medicine Hat, Alta.

• I thoroughly enjoyed the October 4th production of Aberhart of Alberta.

Living amongst a generation to whom the '30's and '40's are not remembered, the insight gained from a verbal history of this type helps us to understand this period.

Criticism of Social Credit is on the upswing, and a look at the past helped to show the actual conditions both behind the man and the people of those days.

Here's hoping that more productions of this type are forthcoming and that they are heard by the people who should hear them. (This is a bit ideological).—K.M., Edmonton.

Compliments from Afar to Red River Jamboree

• I'm vacationing in Saint Martins, N.B., and saw your program (Red River Jamboree) for the first time this summer.

I was born in Los Angeles and have lived in Southern California all my life. ... I enjoy western music, and I think you have a wonderful program.

... I like the older tunes you sing. At home I can always hear the top 40 western tunes, but unless you listen to the all-night station, you don't hear many old songs.

I wish your program was on an international basis, because it's one of the best shows I've seen and heard. ... —Miss C.C., Saint Martins, N.B.

"The Jacksons" Just Like Home Folk

... I'd like to say how much I've enjoyed The Jackson's and Their Neighbours through the years. It's a program that I never tire of, for (these people) seem to have the same trials and successes as we do. ... —Mrs. M.L., Aylesbury, Sask.

Deplores Music, Murder, Mayhem

• May I commend your general choice of radio programs but deplore the amount of sport, popular music, murder and shooting as on TV. As a teacher, I have to use counter-action against the last mentioned at school.

CBC Music Programs Recorded At U. of Manitoba

UNDERSCORING CBC twenty-fifth anniversary celebrations Winnipeg musicians will perform three public concerts on the University of Manitoba Campus. Music from the University recitals will be recorded and heard later on a total of five programs broadcast by CBC Radio.

On Saturday, November 4 commencing at 2:30 p.m., the first concert will originate in room 231 of the Isbister Building. Three complete radio programs will be produced with short intermissions dividing them. "Recital in Miniature" for broadcast November 6 will feature violinist Marta Hidy, accompanied by Snjolaug Sigurdson at the piano. Tenor Peter Koslowsky and pianist Winnifred Sim will perform a song cycle for the November 7 "Song Album" program. "Prairie Chamber Music" for November 9 will complete the broadcast-concert with the Dirk Keetbaas Players—a wind quintet. Following the concert an art exhibition opens in the University library adjacent to the Isbister Building.

As part of the University's Festival of the Arts program the Corydon String Trio will perform in the Agricultural Auditorium on Friday, November 10. A portion of their program will be recorded and presented on "Prairie Chamber Music" November 16.

The CBC Winnipeg Orchestra directed by Eric Wild will shift its locale to the residence auditorium at the University, Monday, November 13, for the regular rehearsal and recording session. Recording of their presentation for November 20 broadcast will commence at 12:40 p.m.

Note to CBK Listeners

Due to a last-minute change of plans, schedules for CBK Saskatchewan printed in last week's issue are not correct. CBK listeners should follow listings for CBW in last week's issue for all network programs.

FOR A FOURTH SEASON Betty Nickerson and her popular show for young folks, Busy Fingers, return to CBWT November 8 at 5:00 p.m. As in past years, Betty and her young guests will demonstrate how many imaginative projects can be accomplished using limited, inexpensive, basic materials. While painting and drawing are a large part of the show, there is no limit to the variety of arts and crafts demonstrated.

A SERVICE unique in the world of broadcasting has commenced another season on the CBC's prairie radio stations. The Northern Messenger once more is on the air, broadcasting personal messages to residents of the Northwest Territories, otherwise kept out of touch with the rest of civilization by the icy barriers of the Arctic winter.

Messages are broadcast at 12:15 a.m. C.S.T. each Saturday morning on CBW, CBX and CBK, and are repeated on the CBC's Northern Short-wave Service on 9.585 and 11.72 megacycles each Sunday at 8:03 p.m. C.S.T. by the CBC's 50,000-watt transmitters at Sackville, New Brunswick.

Although there is no charge for the service, messages are limited to 25 words in length, and must include the name and address of both sender and receiver. Further information on the service can be obtained by writing to: The Northern Messenger Service, CBC, Box 160, Winnipeg. SOME CBC WINNIPEG radio announcers soon will know how goldfish feel, as they go about their week's work in one of the CBC's show windows on Portage Avenue. CBW's morning man Ken Dunstan, Tempo host Gren Marsh, and the cast of the daily Manitoba Farm Show were to be seen in the show window the week of October 30, broadcasting their regular programs out where the public can watch them. It's all part of the publicity planned for the CBC's 25th anniversary which is marked on November 2.

REMEMBRANCE DAY, November 11, once again will be suitably marked by CBC Radio and Television in Winnipeg when they carry live the annual ceremonies from the Winnipeg Auditorium. Broadcast and telecast time will be 10:45 to 11:30 a.m. C.S.T. on CBW and CBWT. Ron Hunka, Regional Supervisor of Outside Broadcasts, is to handle the broadcast-telecast.

All TV network stations will receive the Remembrance Day service from Ottawa at 9:45 a.m. C.S.T. (8:45 a.m. M.S.T.) and many stations also have planned local programs to mark the day. A network radio broadcast will be heard at 9:45 a.m. on CBW and CBK, and 8:45 a.m. on CBX, followed by special local programs.

Debate on Radio and TV

What plans are being laid to provide jobs for Canada's ever-increasing labour force? Citizens' Forum, in the first of two programs from Winnipeg, features Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin—debating against Walter Gordon, economics advisor to Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson, and head of the 1957 Gordon Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects. Chairman is W. J. Waines, vice-president, University of Manitoba. The debate is seen Sunday on CBC-TV, and will be heard Thursday on CBC Radio. (See feature, page 35.) Audience questions will be dealt with on the program the following week.

The Man Who Looks Like Everyone

Quest features Frank Gorshin as an introspective mimic
Sunday in "Do Jerry Parker"

THE LIFT of an eyebrow, a change in vocal inflection, and a mannerism or two, all accomplished in a second, and Frank Gorshin can convince his audience he's any one of a dozen or more distinctly different personalities, from Boris Karloff to Richard Widmark, Broderick Crawford, Steve McQueen, Jeff Chandler, Kirk Douglas, Al Jolson, James Cagney, or Perry Como — and not the short, thin, blond, mild-looking young man of 28 he really is. Gorshin is known as the man who looks like everyone.

As an American impressionist-actor-comedian-singer-dancer, he is enjoying a rapid rise to fame in television, films, nightclubs and recordings after several abortive attempts to hit the bigtime. "I don't know if I want to be a movie actor or a night club performer," he says. He does know that he wants to develop his dancing and his acting abilities. "I don't want to study acting any further, because I studied for two years and found out it's not a craft, like engineering. The feeling in acting must come from within. You develop acting talent by working and getting experience."

Gorshin is the showbusiness pioneer of his family. He got his first whiff of greasepaint when he was cast in a Pittsburgh high school play. A short time later, after seeing the movie, The Jolson Story, he started imitating Al Jolson, and did it so convincingly that he was invited to entertain at club parties. After high school graduation he enrolled in an engineering course and two years later was drafted into the Army, and posted to Chelveston, England. There he won the European All-U.S. Air Force Talent Contest, was assigned to Special Services, and began entertaining at U.S.O. shows and service clubs through Europe.

"About a year before I was discharged," he says, "a civilian who'd been watching my act closely at the U.S.O. show in Munich, came backstage to see me. He introduced himself as Maurice Bergman, a European representative of Universal-International Pictures."

Bergman suggested that Gorshin should talk to Alec Alexander, a New York film agent. As soon as Frank returned to the States he did, and Alexander found him a part in The Proud and the Profane at Paramount. Gorshin was still in the army, but he wangled a short leave to fly to the Virgin Islands for filming.

When the film was finally edited, Gorshin appeared in only one scene

Danny Kaye:

Philosopher of Good Humour — and Goodwill

MANY A TRUE word is spoken in gesticulation and song. With this in mind, those watching The Danny Kaye Show this Monday night on the CBC television network will get an insight of the philosophy of Danny Kaye.

In his hour-long program, only the second he has done for television other than the special which featured his activities for the United Nations Children's Fund, Kaye will dwell upon a belief he holds about people and their professions. The method which Kaye uses to get his point across will be typical of the man the public knows; it will be funny. He will introduce us to ourselves in a series of skits, including one entitled I Am and Is, in which he stresses that whatever opinion others may have of a person, the most important thing is what he thinks of himself.

This entertainer — "I'm neither comic nor funny-man, alone; I feel I should be summed up as an entertainer"—has many times expressed his thoughts about people being what they are. And it is an extremely serious subject, as are most aspects of Kaye's private life.

"I believe people become what they have to become, not what they want to become," he has said many times. "It's something within them, the way they have to express themselves. A good car-greaser can be just as important as a good doctor or a good comedian. Profession doesn't matter. An important figure is only as important as he is to himself."

If Kaye were to be asked how he became an entertainer, he would reply with a question: "How did you become what you are?"

"I've been asked the question many times," the 48-year-old native of Brooklyn, N.Y., says. "And I always ask the person the same thing. People express themselves in different ways. For instance, ask five different people to describe the same incident and you will get five different viewpoints. One may see only the funny side, another may see it philosophically, a third may consider it a tragedy, a fourth will look upon it matter-of-factly and a fifth may be completely confused by it."

"I'd like to think that I'm the kind of human being people think I am. For that matter, all of us like to think we're greater than we really are and endowed with more virtues than we possess. But eventually we realize we have all of the human frailties and faults everyone else is heir to. One basic fact confronts everybody: there comes a point when you have to face yourself and stop pretending to yourself what you are."

Of all groups Kaye entertains—and that includes everyone, from servicemen in foreign camps to the Royal Family — he enjoys performing for children most. Three years ago, shortly after completing five trips abroad inspecting and entertaining UNICEF medical and nutritional stations, Kaye said that at that point of his life only one thing was sure—"Whatever I do, a major portion of the work will be for the kids of all nations."

"Adults can learn so much more from children than children from adults," he says. "I like children but I don't like every single one of the thousands I meet; that would be a phony thing to say and there's one certain thing about children—they can spot a phony a mile away."

Children are the common denominator of mankind and their welfare is the common concern of all of us, according to Kaye.

"When I was on the UNICEF trips, there was no communication between the children and me in the sense that an adult understands it," Kaye told a reporter. "But somehow we made it, if only by smiling, shaking hands, rubbing noses and making friendly sounds. If you can somehow teach kids of all nations and colours and creeds to realize that people of all nationalities, colours and creeds are working in their hearts toward a common goal, it will help them grow up and become mature, functioning, useful citizens of this world."

Ancient Seas. During the time of the Silurian seas when most of the area of Northern America is still covered with water we discover that fresh deposits are being made on the ocean floor. From earlier deposits left by the receding seas we obtain the ornamental flagstones and rubble building fronts of today. In a visit to the Winnipeg Gravel plant at Stony Mountain we see that fossil life has become a part of the modern provincial highway systems.

ERIC CHRISTMAS

an Indian chief to donate some of his land to the government.

Danny Kaye Show

As Others See Us, is the theme of this show in which Danny Kaye uses comedy to introduce us to ourselves. He does a pantomime sketch of a man's daily trials—from waking up in the morning to going to sleep at night.

He pokes fun at some singers who take themselves too seriously. In another sketch Kay demonstrates the lengths to which a cocktail party hostess will go to please an important guest. To show what an entertainer thinks of himself, Kaye performs a number with the chorus, entitled I Am And Is.

Festival

The Blue Hotel, by Stephen Crane, with screen play by James Agee. Set in a frontier Nebraska town of the late nineteenth century, Scully's hotel harbors a handful of wayfarers who are sheltering from a winter blizzard. One of them is a Swede, who with his uncouth and uneasy attitude incites the group's curiosity and dislike which finally erupts into hatred when he accuses the hotelkeeper's son of cheating at cards.

Starring Howard Da Silva, with Michael Forrest, Jonathan White, Eric Christmas and Sean Sullivan. Others in the cast are: Alexander with Thelma Ritter. This discouraged him somewhat and on his discharge from the army, he decided that an acting career wasn't worth the struggle. He took jobs here and there—with a telephone company and the postal service—was laid off frequently, and when he was around $400 in debt, made up his mind to hit out for California and make one more attempt to break into showbusiness.

First he tried TV, with happy results. He was cast as a tough guy (nobody at this point realized how funny he could be) in such series as Wire Service, Frontier Doctor, General Electric Theatre, The Silent Service and Navy Log. Later he played heavies—and occasionally a comic—in grade "B" films. And he paid off his debts.

In 1958, when travelling through Oklahoma on the way back to the west from an east coast visit, he fell asleep at the wheel of his car. It careened off the road and smashed to pieces. Gorshin, unconscious for four days, then spent seven months recovering from a fractured skull. He had to turn down film jobs and other profitable work in television.

Once again he made a fresh start—but with better roles this time—in TV shows such as Climax and Alfred Hitchcock Presents, and in the 20th Century-Fox production of Warlock where he played Richard Widmark's younger brother. He still did impressions, occasionally, but only at private parties. Then he auditioned for Steve Allen and was signed to give some of his impersonations on Allen's big variety program on television in March, 1959. Overnight he became known coast to coast and was offered all

Advice to the Young Musician

"Be yourself; do not pretend to be different from what you really are; be serious, concentrate, study, be willing to work hard. Even if you are born with talent—and you have to be—you must develop your talent to the utmost, and you must never think you've arrived at the ultimate, because there is no ultimate—music, like space, is limitless."—Conductor Leopold Stokowski speaking on the BBC.

TOMMY AMBROSE

A young man brimming with showmanship, Tommy Ambrose plays host Fridays on his CBC-TV show featuring young talent.

American "private-eye" detective. In this BBC drama series, Fraser is a quiet commonplace citizen in pursuit of an embezzling business partner, but as the English would say "the chase is the thing." For Fraser, in pursuit of his money and errant partner, finds himself in a considerably more dangerous and hazardous business than that of his former profession as an engineer.

the night club work he could handle. Film director Vincente Minnelli offered him the role of a merry-andrew type of Method actor in Bells Are Ringing. Gorshin capered through in a performance which some critics felt merited an Oscar. Producer Joe Pasternak liked it so well that he signed him up for Where the Boys Are, in which Gorshin appeared as a bass-player in thick-lensed glasses. Gorshin got his first star billing, as a straight actor, in Studs Lonigan, was cast as a sinister convict in The Great Imposter, and as a hoodlum in Ring of Fire.

Meanwhile his television appearances and night club work had been piling up, and recently he is reported to have "wowed them" in Las Vegas. He writes his own night club dialogue, and looks forward to the time when he can also dance, sing, and do comedy routines in his own act. "I'm tired of just doing impressions. I want them to be secondary," he says. "I've had to be everybody else to establish myself."

And that's exactly the feeling of the character he plays Sunday night when CBC-TV's Quest presents Do Jerry Parker, a humorous but highly moving play by Bernard Slade, produced by George McCowan. Gorshin appears as Nicky Reed, an impressionist who develops a violent hatred for the particular TV personality he is always called on to imitate. Gorshin says he wouldn't go as far as Nicky does in the play, but he does feel that "by doing impressions of so many famous people I may be encouraging the public to forget the real me."

Helen Gallagher and members of the cast of Broadway's Sound of Music.

Mr. Rodgers appears as a special guest to conduct the orchestra in a special arrangement of his Victory At Sea music.

CBXT—Peter Gunn

The Feathered Doll. A carnival doll won as a prize at a shooting gallery sets Peter Gunn on the trail of the man responsible for a double murder.

RICHARD RODGERS

Broadway composer Richard Rodgers leads the orchestra Friday on The Telephone Hour, in a program made up of his music. Dolores Gray, Martha Wright, Howard Keel, Ray Bolger and Helen Gallagher also star.

FRENCH TELEVISION HIGHLIGHTS

Channel 6—CBWFT

Serials

With the beginning of a new series two weeks ago, and the return, last week, of the popular "Côte de sable" CBWFT once again has completed its roster of light-entertainment theatre.

Kanawio, Sunday at 8:00 p.m., is based on true facts of the History of Canada. Author Guy Dufresne has situated the action between 1640 and 1655 in Eastern Canada, near Montreal. The action revolves around three Iroquois families, and although the action is continuous, each episode will bear on a particular event, a certain historical fact which, along with other similar events, constituted at that time the everyday life of the Iroquois.

Some of these events, as listed by the author: 1640—The Iroquois and

CLAIRE GAGNIER

Bizet's "Carmen" is featured Thursday, November 9 at 9:00 p.m. on CBWFT, with Claire Gagnier singing the role of Micaela.

Hurons go to war against each other, the Iroquois with the help of English and Dutch settlers, and the Hurons with the French. The Iroquois swear to exterminate the French.

1642—the foundation of Montreal by Jacques Cartier is a thorn in the Iroquois vanity.

1643—first Iroquois raids on Montreal, then Ville-Marie.

1646—Father Jogues, a Jesuit missionary, is taken prisoner by the Iroquois.

1650—the allied Iroquois tribes reap a decisive victory over the Hurons.

Project '62 Asks:

Does Modern Man Have A CONSCIENCE?

CAIN ASKED: "Am I my brother's keeper?" and mankind ever since has been haggling over the meaning of Conscience. Our traditional philosophies are contradictory, and modern definitions are at variance.

Yet a thorough understanding of Conscience has never been needed more than in this period of revolutionary change in social and ethical patterns. On both personal and collective levels we are filled with mass feelings of insecurity and doubt. Old rules sometimes seem not to apply, and life whirls on at too fast a rate for forming reliable new ones. Yardsticks become obsolete overnight. As our society grows more scientific and complicated, more and more conformity and less individual freedom are demanded of us.

As humanists like Sir C. P. Snow and Dr. J. Bronowski constantly warn us, we have allowed our intellectual and moral capacity for dealing with the profound dilemmas of human relationships to slide away behind our advances in science and other aspects of modern civilization. One of the reasons is that scientists, theologians, psychiatrists, economists, politicians and sociologists are so busy fighting for man's survival with their own special weapons that they have all but forgotten their common defence: moral values. And when they do remember, they often find that they are unable to communicate because they speak a jargon unintelligible to each other.

But the language of Conscience is really quite basic, once the jargon underbrush is cleared out, and it is imperative that man learn to speak and understand it if he is to survive the unprecedented threats to his civilization.

On Sunday afternoon CBC radio's Project '62 presents the first of four important programs examining the current condition of the human Conscience in layman's terms — at the individual level, in community action, government politics, international affairs, business life, professional practice, the labour movement, communications, law, science, cultural fields, voluntary group ac-

SPORTS

by KEN REEVES

THE REGULAR SEASON in Canadian football is rapidly drawing to a close and this week, the final game of the Western Conference schedule winds it up completely when the B.C. Lions host the Calgary Stampeders, on November 5. This will mark the first time a Western Conference game has been played on a Sunday and no doubt it will be viewed with considerable interest by the rest of the Western clubs.

Ken Reeves

With final figures still to be released, I may be jumping the gun when I say that attendance in general throughout the West is down; perhaps not a great deal but down nevertheless. At the time of this writing, the Saskatchewan Roughriders may be the only team in the Western Conference that will show an increase in attendance over 1960 and they are well ahead. This, of course, means that the Riders will be back in 1962, which will no doubt sadden their detractors but gladden the hearts of their fans across the country, of which there are many. In any case, all teams will likely be taking a long hard look at the possibilities of Sunday football as a means of fattening up the gate.

National Football League action will again be on the bill of fare for Sunday, with the telecasting of the Green Bay Packers' game with the Baltimore Colts. The Packers, still out in front of the NFL's western Division, are in danger of being hurt badly through the possible loss of halfback Paul Hornung, to Uncle Sam's armed forces. Last season he set a new scoring record for the National Football League, when he racked up a total of 176 points. This game promises (Please turn to page 31)

LATE CONCERT

Two Louisville commissioned works for this week noted as follows:

Concert Suite for Violin and Orchestra Herbert Elwell
(Sidney and Teresa Harth, violinists)

In the title he substitutes the term "suite" for that of "concerto," the composer arguing that without the element of really virtuoso cadenzas to challenge the two soloists, the work is simply not pretentious enough to be called a concerto. The suite has no cadenzas of any kind.

Four Strict Songs for Eight Baritones and Orchestra Lou Harrison (David Bingham, soloist; members of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary Choir;
The Louisville Symphony Orchestra, Robert Whitney, conductor)

The second work is based on a special system of "untuned" tuning for the piano, from which the singers and other instrumentalists get their pitch—the piano being the only fixed pitch instrument used. The orchestra consists of a string section, two trombones, harp and percussions.

Prepared by Ben Horsch.

Two of last season's Four Mice (girl vocal-group) are back on the Juliette show this season—Sylvia Wilson and Frances Groat. Sylvia was second runner-up in the Miss Canada pageant this summer, and will use her $250 scholarship to further her vocal studies.

Angie Antonelli, the group's original lead soprano who left mid-way through last season to have a baby, rejoins the Four Mice in the spot vacated by Jamie Apy. Completing the foursome is Sharon Friendly, who has worked with vocal coach Gino Silvi on such CBC-TV variety shows as Hit Parade. She replaces Carol Hill, who is expecting another child.

Juliette returned to the CBC-TV network with her Saturday night show on Oct. 14, following the NHL telecast.

tivities, the family and at other levels.

The first program is called The Conscience of a Man — Albert Camus. Camus, the French author who died last year at 46 in a car-crash, hated self-righteousness and the fact that he was often referred to as a moral force. He wrestled long and hard with nihilism—believed that "there is more to admire than to despise in man," but he can't be accused of facile optimism.

Camus first became known as a novelist vaguely associated with France's literature of despair, but after the Second World War he developed into Europe's foremost critic of ideologies rooted in hopelessness, which treat man as the slave of history, the state, or class struggle. "I've had enough of people who die for an idea," he wrote. "What interests me is to live and die because of what one loves."

The first program includes comment on Camus and his ideas by Mme. Odile de Lalain, an Algerian-born writer well-known in France, who worked as secretary to Camus for a few months. She describes him as able to talk to anyone, "a young prince with wonderful, vivacious and intelligent eyes," who was ready to take over his kingdom. Another participant is Leonard Cohen, a Canadian writer who says his whole life was changed by Camus. "Camus," he says, "tries to lead the reader to that peak just before the leap of faith, where one refuses to make the leap of faith, yet refuses to return to melancholy and despair."

In the second program, The Conscience of Man (Nov. 12), leading thinkers will be asked for their opinions about what Western man calls Conscience in a world faced by a moral and ethical crisis. Does the end justify the means in modern life? Conscience will be considered in the light of nuclear war and all its implications. They will be asked whether the West, to protect its very existence, must adopt the totalitarian and barbaric tactics of opposing forces, and whether using them would mean losing the battle before it begins. And they will look at the meaning of conscience in the light of the Eichmann trial, with its implications of collective guilt, not only of the German people, but of those who, in some instances, refused sanctuary to the Jews when they were fleeing a country they had considered their homeland for many generations, and which suddenly was ruled by a madman and his dream of a superior race.

Speakers on this program will be asked for their opinions about how importantly they regard Conscience in the functioning of the individual and society, and how it has been changed by developments in science, politics, economics, culture and moral and social philosophy.

DOES MODERN MAN HAVE A CONSCIENCE?

In exploring these questions, reporters Eleanor Fischer, John David Hamilton, and Colin D. Edwards talked to biologist Sir Julian Huxley, historian Arnold Toynbee, educationist Robert Hutchins, negro leader Martin Luther King, and many others, including psychiatrists, astronomers, penal reformers and theologians.

In the Nov. 19 program, The Conscience of a Nation — Canada, some leading Canadian thinkers are asked what they think Canada's role in the present-day world should be. Do they want their country to be a neutral power, a leader in Western defence, an overgrown child tied to American apron strings, a cold, vigorous exponent of peaceful co-existence, or a drifting opportunist state? A panel of three or four outstanding Canadians will be asked to comment on the fact that, at the end of September, Canadian wheat supplies in storage or in transit totalled 414,000,000 bushels, while more than a third of the world's population is undernourished. They will give their opinions on Canadian immigration policy, defence spending, the government's attitude to nuclear weapons, and how the individual can influence his country's role in a disturbed world.

The fourth program considers The Conscience of Wisdom on Nov. 26. Some of the philosophers and theologians interviewed maintain that our society must be adjusted to fit the unchangeable values developed throughout the centuries, while some of the scientists claim that many of these values have been so altered that they are inapplicable to our society, and that we need a new set.

Father Martin D'Arcy believes that "Conscience has a reference to man outside himself. We can't just throw it off and say 'I don't believe in it, it's just an excitement of my own imagination.' The more we listen to it the greater demands it makes of us—not frightening demands but demands in terms of excellence. A full stage of Conscience involves a philosophy of life." He imagines how one human-being, living in a primitive society, gradually begins to question himself about the purpose of his existence, what he is doing, and why he is doing things, and that slight touch of rebellion is the beginning of Conscience; he realizes that he is responsible for his actions, his life, his freedom.

Father D'Arcy, as well as Spanish philosopher Don Salvador de Madariaga, believes that only the family can give the necessary foundation for modern society. Barbara Castle, vigorous left-wing socialist and British labour M.P., and Sir Julian Huxley consider the family structure outdated and unsuccessful.

The program asks: Can our legacy of wisdom be made to help us adjust to the revolutionary changes within our complex Western society, and in the many non-committed countries? Can it become a bulwark against the violently antagonistic block that is threatening the individual liberty and freedom advocated, and in many instances, maintained, by the West?

SPORTS—KEN REEVES

to be one of the best of the season, especially since it's to be played in Baltimore and the Colts are almost unbeatable in their home park. Quarterback Johnny Unitas should also make things interesting since he seems to have recovered his old form of two seasons back, when he led the Colts to the NFL championship.

On Saturday, November 11, the first game of the Western Conference semi-finals also will be telecast and this will feature the second-place Edmonton Eskimos, at Calgary, against the third-place finishing Stampeders. This is the first game of a two-game total point series with the winner advancing into the Western final against the Winnipeg Blue Bombers. The Stamps, improving every time out since they acquired Ed O'Bradovich, Bill Crawford, Bruce Claridge and Jimmy Walden from the B.C. Lions for Joe Kapp, figure to make things pretty tough on the Eskies, who have been in somewhat of a slump, since winning their first seven games of the season. The Stampeders could win this but I look for Jackie Parker to get the Eskies past Calgary, unless, of course, he comes up with a serious injury that might keep him on the sidelines.

NHL hockey will be competing for attention from Canadian sports fans when the Chicago Blackhawks invade Montreal for a Saturday night battle with the Canadiens, in the Forum. This should be a real dandy of a game with both the Habs and Hawks picked to finish either first or second in this season's grind. The Hawks, at the moment, are in a spot of trouble with all-star defenceman Pierre Pilote, on the sidelines with a shoulder separation. However, the injury to Pilote could be a blessing in disguise for Bob Turner, whom the Hawks bought from the Canadiens last spring. In games to date, Turner hasn't seen too much action but they can hardly ignore his experience now, and I fully expect Turner to at long last come into his own, proving to one and all that he is a major leaguer.

FRENCH TV HIGHLIGHTS

1653—the Montreal defenses are reinforced, with the arrival of the Army.

1658—the Iroquois devise new strategies to break down the spirit of the French Settlers.

1660—Dollard des Ormeaux and a handful of brave men defend Long Sault, near Montreal, from the onslaught of hundreds of Iroquois.

1661—the Iroquois double their strength and hit back at the French.

1664—Carignan, a French officer, leads his armies to decisive victories over the Iroquois tribes.

1665—construction of forts on the banks of the Richelieu river. Tracy visits the Mohawks and obtains the signing of a peace treaty.

These, and many other historical events serve as the base for the series Kanawio. The story is told, not after the text books of the White man, but from anecdotes brought down from father to son and told again today in the Iroquois reserves.

The author has obtained for his series, the co-operation of experts on Iroquois life and legends, among them Jean Juneau, who has strong ties with the Iroquois reserve of Oka and has dedicated his life to the study of the Iroquois.

Stars of the series are Roland Chenail as Arakwante, leader of the household; Colette Courtois as Karhiosta, the "mother," Hélène Loisel as Wasontio, second in line as mother of the clan; Aimé Major as the latter's husband; Gilles Pelletier as Raweras (Thunder) the leader of the war party; Monique Miller as Wantonnis, a Huron beauty. Others in the cast are Paul Berval (Nitoken), Monique Joly (Loawi), Jean Peraud (Tsitsakenra), Percy Rodriguez (Ganawahto).

The series is produced by Aimé Forget.

Les Belles Histoires des pays d'en haut—seen Mondays at 8:00 p.m., tells of life in a little village in the 1900's. Séraphin Poudrier (Jean-Pierre Masson), a miser whose control over the region is all but complete and his wife Donalda (Andrée Champagne) for whom pines Alexis Labranche (Gabriel Gascon), are the nucleus around which evolve a colourful and ambitious group of colonizers. Although much of the conflict and drama has to do with the trio Séraphin-Donalda-Alexis, the story is in fact, a chronicle of the colonization period in the Laurentians. Religious and political events are intertwined with this love story, serving either as spring-board for the birth of local affairs, or as background for all the municipal quarrels and bickering in Ste-Adèle.

Although Joie de vivre (Tuesdays, 8:00 p.m.) and Filles d'Eve (Thursdays, 8:00 p.m.) escape the factual events La côte de sable, begun last season, is also among the semi-documentary, semifictional style serials. Written by the young and prolific Canadian author Marcel Dubé, the series deals with post-war reactions and intrigues and is set in Ottawa, in the Sandy-Hill district. In it, the author manages to capture the average reactions of a quiet but still fearful Canadian public at the conclusion of the great world conflict.

The series stars, among others: Yves Létourneau, Denise Pelletier, Nathalie Naubert, Clémence Desrochers, Richard Martin, Benoit Girard and Roger Garceau.

Citizens' Forum: Debates of National Concern on Radio and Television

NATIONAL DEBATE, something new in television programming, will be offered CBC audiences when Citizens' Forum begins its 19th broadcast season on Sunday, November 5, on CBC-TV, and on Thursday, November 9, on CBC radio.

For the first time both CBC-TV cameras and microphones will be set up at public meetings across Canada on a regular basis to record debates on five topics of major national concern. In each debate two well-informed speakers will be given seven minutes each to discuss their subject. There will be a three-minute rebuttal time for a couple of questions from the audience, and then the chairman will round up the debate. Immediately another half-hour program will be video-taped and recorded in which the chairman will give a resume of the debate and then members of the audience will be invited to question the speakers. This second half-hour will then be presented the following week on both TV and radio, allowing for a longer debate, a fuller exploration of the week's question, and greater audience participation than was possible in other Citizens' Forum series.

Program organizer Christina McDougall says that all political parties will be represented among the 10 main speakers, and because the topics selected are of vital concern to both federal and provincial governments, leaders from both fields are being asked to participate. The series will be presented in co-operation with the Canadian Association for Adult Education, with which the CBC has had a long and successful collaboration. The C.A.A.E. is preparing study pamphlets outlining different points of view about each week's topic, with general background information. All five may be had by sending $1.00 to Citizens' Forum, 113 St. George Street, Toronto 5.

Miss McDougall says that before each broadcast a few people who have indicated their intention to attend the debate will be invited to join study groups to read the study pamphlet, discuss the topic among themselves, and then attend the broadcast well-informed on the various aspects of the question.

The first program on November 5 (TV), November 9 (radio), titled Unemployment — the Long View, will originate in Winnipeg. The speakers will be Duff Roblin, Premier of Manitoba, and Walter Gordon, of Woods, Gordon and Co., with William Wainess, vice-president of the University of Manitoba, as chairman.

The second debate, in Dartmouth, N.S., on November 19 and 26, takes a look at The Health Plan Canada Needs. Speakers will be David Lewis, vice-president of the New Democratic Party, who believes in socialized medicine, and Dr. J. A. McMillan, of the Canadian Medical Association in Prince Edward Island, who feels that a private medical plan can be worked out satisfactorily with the Canadian people.

The third debate, from Quebec City on December 3 and 10, considers whether or not Business Needs More Government Participation. Speakers will be announced later. Trade Unions in Politics Today will be discussed in the fourth debate, at a public meeting in Ottawa—TV, December 17, radio, December 24. The speakers will be T. C. Douglas, federal leader of the New Democratic Party, and J. W. Pickersgill, M.P. for Bonaville-Twillingate.

The fifth debate, from Vancouver on December 31 and January 7, will consider Federal and Provincial Control of Canada's Development. One of the speakers will be Robert Bonner, Attorney-General of British Columbia. The other will be announced later.

Citizens' Forum began in the years of the Second World War to give authoritative people a chance to discuss problems concerning all Canadians, at public meetings. The series never has offered solutions, but strives to make the issues clearer, to show how they relate to the individual, to stimulate Canadians to think for themselves, and to act on their conclusions. Groups of friends who would like to form a forum to listen to or watch the programs together, to discuss them, and send their conclusions to national headquarters of Citizens' Forum, are invited to write to 113 St. George Street, Toronto 5, for details.

In Citizens' Forum's early days, audience questions were encouraged, but after the series began to be presented on TV as well as radio, technical difficulties of TV made audience participation impractical. Now the series has reverted to its original purpose — to give the Canadian public a chance to match minds with some of this country's leaders in a spontaneous exchange of ideas about major problems affecting the future of our economics, society, politics, education and general welfare.
